Sheila Fitzpatrick is a writer and twentieth-century historian who is Professor of History at the University of Sydney and Distinguished Service Professor Emerita of the University of Chicago. Her books include Everyday Stalinism (2000); Tear off the Masks! Identity and Imposture in Twentieth-Century Russia (2005); My Father’s Daughter (2010), a memoir of growing up in Australia in the 1950s; A Spy in the Archives (2013), a memoir of Moscow during the Cold War; and On Stalin’s Team: The Years of Living Dangerously in Soviet Politics (2015). She is a regular contributor to The London Review of Books. Her new book, Mischka’s War, will be published by Melbourne University Press next year.

Michael Danos and his mother Olga were displaced persons (DPs) from Riga who spent six years in Germany before being resettled in the United States. Forty years later, I met and married Michael, by that time a distinguished physicist. When he died in 1999, I inherited his and Olga’s papers, which included diaries and letters from the German years. That’s how I came to write this story – an odyssey of two unusual people and their adventures in wartime and postwar Europe.

Sheila Fitzpatrick is a writer and twentieth-century historian who is Professor of History at the University of Sydney and Distinguished Service Professor Emerita of the University of Chicago. Her books include Everyday Stalinism (2000); Tear off the Masks! Identity and Imposture in Twentieth-Century Russia (2005); My Father’s Daughter (2010), a memoir of growing up in Australia in the 1950s; A Spy in the Archives (2013), a memoir of Moscow during the Cold War; and On Stalin’s Team: The Years of Living Dangerously in Soviet Politics (2015). She is a regular contributor to The London Review of Books. Her new book, Mischka’s War, will be published by Melbourne University Press next year.

This seminar will be followed by a

Book Launch

Friday 21 October 2016, 6pm

All are welcome to both the seminar and the launch.